

Aviation & Allied Business Leadership Conference Pulls Aviation Who-Is-Who To Nairobi

Africa's foremost private-sector-led development forum, the Aviation & Allied Business Leadership Conference, will this year hold from August 30 to September 1, 2009 at the Intercontinental Hotel, Nairobi, Kenya, with a major task to help steer the industry in Africa through the turbulence posed by global economic recession. The Conference returns to Nairobi after four years, having been held in the country rich in wildlife scenery in 2004.

This year's, the 15th in a series of impactful development-critical meetings organised by the Aviation & Allied Business, would incorporate greater industry participation, and weave a solid foreground for partnerships as a veritable tool to help surmount especially current formidable industry's challenges. The Conference would also serve as a platform to enhance the actualization of the Global Aviation Safety Roadmap (GASR) in Africa, building on the successes achieved at the AFI-RAN meeting in Durban, South Africa, in November last year.

The 15th Aviation & Allied Business Leadership Conference will be attended by leading aviation personalities from all over Africa, Europe, Middle East and North America. This event promises to be the biggest aviation gathering in Africa in 2009. You cannot afford to miss it.

Please log on to www.aviationbusinessjournal.aero for more details and to learn how you can participate.